

Christiana Riley

Member of the Management Board of Deutsche Bank AG, CEO of Deutsche Bank USA Corp.

Christiana joined Deutsche Bank in September 2006 in the Group Strategy division and served as the Head of Corporate Strategy from 2011-2015. In 2015, she became CFO of Deutsche Bank's global Corporate & Investment Bank, responsible for DB's largest operating division.

From 2016-2019, Christiana served as Chairman of the Audit Committee of Deutsche Postbank AG, and following its merger, as Audit Committee Chair of the Supervisory Board of the Deutsche Privat und Firmenkunden AG.

Christiana serves on the Board of Directors of the Deutsche Bank Americas Foundation, American Council on Germany, Partnership for New York City, and Chief Executives for Corporate Purpose. She also serves on the Supervisory Board of The Clearing House and is a member of the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees of the Institute of International Bankers. She also is a member of the Board of Trustees for the American Institute for Contemporary German Studies, the Arthur F. Burns Fellowship, and the Cranach Foundation.

Christiana graduated cum laude from Princeton University with a Bachelor of Arts in Romance Languages and Literature. She holds an MBA from the London Business School, and currently serves as a member of its Governing Body.